When "Rollo" in the year 912 proceeded to divide Normandy among his followers he allotted the northern district of La Manche in which the Barony of Briquebec is situated to his brother "Drogo or Hrollagur" who took also the surname of "Triestan". (The House of Russell derived its appellation from one of the Fiefs. The first Chieftan of that surname possessed anterior to the Conquest of England in lower Normandy the ancient Barony of Briquebec.

THE ROOT FAMILY
"ENGLISH RECORDS"
BADBY PARISH

The researches of Mr. Jesse Root of Berlin Connecticut brought to light the fact that John Root who settled in Farmington came from a small parish in Northamptonshire England by the name of "Badby". The branch of the family which first settled in Hartford and afterwards removed to Northampton was allied to that in Farmington and Thomas of the former places was a brother of John of the latter place, (who married Mary Kilbourne dau Thomas and Francis Kilbourne of Wood Dutton England came to America 1635.) The parish records of "Badby" examined by Mr. Russell Harper Root of New York indicate that they were brothers. The first record found in the old parish book was that of the marriage of John Roote and Ann Russell in the year 1600. (John Roote lived and died in Badby.) The record of their children runs as follows:

aa	I	Mary bap. Badby Dec 21 1600
bb	II	Susannah bap. Badby Oct 18 1603
350	III	Thomas bap. Badby Jan 16 1605
2800	IV	John bap. Badby Feb 26 1605

Besides this there is a record of the death of Thomas Roote on the 5th of April 1609 father of John Roote who married Ann Russell (see Russell family Page I.)

In Baker's History of Northamptonshire it is stated "Sir Hugh Russell of Thorp Mundeville was grantee of Fawsley in the year 1635. He was the ancestor of Ann Russell who married John Roote of Badby (Baddebi) two and one half miles from Doventry.

Thomas Roote (1) son of John Roote and Ann Russell Roote of Badby England, born Jan 16th 1605, came to this country about the year 1637 and was among the first settlers in Hartford, Conn., where he lived many years and where his children were born, although on account of the incompleteness of the ancient records of Hartford, as they have come down to this generation, the birth of only one of them (John) is recorded. Thomas Roote went to Pequot in 1637 as a soldier (Page 406 Society Colonial Wars) The name of Thomas Roote is mentioned in the list of proprietors of undivided lands in 1639 and may be found on the monument in the old graveyard in Hartford at the rear of the Center Church erected in memory of the first settlers of the city. He was a considerable landholder there, and one parcel of land assigned to him was located on what is now North Main Street, about a mile west of the State House. After a residence of about fifteen years in Hartford he left with his six sons and one daughter and settled in Northampton Mass., on the 9th day of May 1654 as one of the planters of what was then called "Nonotuck". In the Mass. Colonial Documents we find that in 1659 on petition he was appointed one of the Selectmen. He was both farmer and weaver of cloth. His record of lands in Massachusetts assigned to him by the town is dated the 7th of June 1659. On the 18th day of June 1661 the parish church was founded and the Rev. Eleazar Mather was ordained as pastor and teacher of the flock. Among the eight pillars of the church thus organized was Thomas Roote. It is believed by some that he was a Deacon of the church. The old Roote home in Northampton was on King Street opposite where the Roman Catholic Church now stands and it is only within a few years that it has been torn down. Thomas Roote died at an advanced age on the 17th of July 1694, naming his children in his will and mentioning that he lived with his son Jonathan at the old homestead. Thomas Roote's name appears also with eight others in a petition to the General Court of Massachusetts, dated May 6th, 1653, granted

May 18th 1653, asking a permit to plant, possess and inhabit the place on the Connecticut River above Springfield called "Nonotuck" as their own inheritance. Thomas and Sarah Roote were the parents of - Joseph b 1640 m 12-30-1660 Hannah Haynes of Springfield (2) Mary dau William Holden - Thomas b 1644 m 7-3-1666 Abigail dau Alexander Alvord (2) Mary Cox - John b 1-10-1645 m Mehitable Johnson 1677 - he died 9-16-1677 - Jonathan b 1648 m 3-22-1680 Ann dau William Gull of Hartford - he died 1741 - Hezekiah b 1650 m 7-12-1682 Mehitable Frary dau Samson and Mary Daniels Frary - he died 9-29-1690 - Jacob (2) b 2-6-1652 m Mary Frary (sister Mehitable) dau Samson and Mary Daniels Frary 2-2-1680 - Sarah b 1660 m 3-30-1679 Samuel Kellogg of Hartford.

Jacob Root (2) was the youngest son of Thomas Roote, and was born in Hartford Feb 6th 1652. He married Feb 2nd 1680 Mary dau Samson and Mary Daniels Frary of Deerfield Mass., dau of Samuel Daniels one of the original proprietors of Dedham, drew Lot 26, and Mary Daniels. John Frary, Samson's father, settled in that part of Dedham, now Frary Street, Medfield, and was one of the founders of the church in Dedham 1638. He died June 14th 1695 "at a great age". "When the Dedham Committee laid the town street in May 1671 they found 'Samson Frary's cellar' at the north end of the street, he drew Lot 29 and the house now standing on it was there in 1697, probably built by himself after 1683 (this is Miss Alice Baker's noted 'Frary House'.) Samson Frary was slain and his wife Mary Daniels Frary was captured and killed on the march to Canada after Deerfield was surprised and destroyed at midnight in 1704 by the French and Indians during the "Queen Anne War" between the Colonies. Jacob Root (2) was mentioned in the land division of the Northampton Feb 2nd 1680. He was among the first settlers of Hebron Conn., where he moved in 1705, and was one of those chosen to run the bounds between Colchester and Hebron in 1710, as the latter was not incorporated when he moved there. (In May 1708 the following petition was presented to the General Assembly by the inhabitants of the township - "to the Honored General Assembly now sitting in order May 13th 1704 - whereas the General Assembly in May last granted liberty for a place called Hebron... A record of the action of the General Assembly under date of May 26th 1708 is as follows - 'This Assembly upon the petition of Jacob Roote and the rest of the inhabitants of the Town of Hebron, does grant to them the privilege of a town, that they may choose its officers and be enabled to raise money for civil and religious uses (Colonial Records".) signed 'Jacob Roote in the name of the Rest". Jacob Roote had a farm which remained in the possession of his family for one hundred and twenty-five years. He died August 9th 1731. His wife died Feb 8th 1744. #### LYMAN FAMILY (Saxon)

Our first knowledge of the family is obtained from the Survey of Lands of England framed by the order of King William the Conqueror 1066 and known as "Doomsday Book" - " Hampshire the Kings Land - Bosmer Hundred - the King himself holds lands - Leman held these in parcennary (right) of King Edward the Elder 901-975 - Hawling - Menostoke Hundred - the Tithingholds Soberton - Leman held it of Earl Godwin".

I Leman held lands Finchdean Hundred.

II Osbert Leman his son succeeded him to these lands and in the time of Henry I 1100-35 Norman King, son of King William the Conqueror, was a witness to a charter attaching the grant of certain lands of the Abbot of Battle.

III Sir Richard his son succeeded him 1135 also holding lands in Counties of Southampton Norfolk and Kent.

IV Sir John Lyman, his son succeeded him and held these lands time Henry II 1156-89.

V Sir Eldred Lyman succeeded to his father and held these lands also Suthyangland Suffolk 1216.

VI Sir Alan Lyman his son succeeded him, also held lands at Stane and Wilburham, Camp, Knight Templars, 1272.

VII Sir Thomas Lyman held divers lands County Wiltes during his father's lifetime 1272.

"He was fined 20 pence by Walter de Sterteslegh Sheriff of Wiltes for default in attending an Inquest to which he had been summoned." He also held lands of the Abbot of St. Edward of Oxford.

VIII Sir Richard Lyman held lands of the Knight Templars County Bedford 1307.

IX Sir Alisalon Lyman purchased lands in the Hundred of Beavisberg now called Beaksbourne, Kent, time Edward I 1307 and had possession of these lands 1327 living 1337, at the collection of the 20th, being the tax then levied as appears by the Subsidy Roll for that year for the said Hundred.

X Sir Espillon Lyman, succeeded to his father and possessed estates at Beaksbourne Kent upon which he was taxed until 1349.

( XII Sir Saloman Lyman, eldest son and heir became possessed of estates Beavisberg upon death of his father and was succeeded by his son.

XII Sir Robert Lyman of Beavisberg, living 1423 and 1430, inherited lands Navistome, Wethersfield and Norton Mundeville, High Ongar, Essex, which his brother John purchased 1432.

XIII Thomas Lyman, Esq., of Navistoke, Essex, and Norton, High Ongar, and Wethersfield, succeeded to his father, married 1488 Elizabeth Lambert (XV Lambert Line) .

( Thus the ancient and honorable lines of Lambert and Umfreville united in the marriage of Sir William Lambert and Joanna de Umfreville and they became the ancestors of the Lyman Family by the marriage of their great-granddaughter Elizabeth Lambert with Thomas Lyman, Esq., (X III Lyman Line) of Navistoke Essex, who died 1509, time Henry VII. Thus Thomas Lyman Esq., and Elizabeth Lambert Lyman became the great-great-grandparents of Richard Lyman who sailed for America with his wife Sarah Osborne Lyman (daughter Roger Osborne of Halsted Kent England) and five children.

Phillis Lyman their daughter baptised September 12th 1611 High Ongar married William Hills (1) of Hartford and they were the great-great-grandparents of Faith Hills Root wife of Sergeant Jonah Root (4).

ADDITIONAL REFERENCE ADAM AND EVE LINE

This remarkable line can be verified and clearly traced through many pages of a quaint 16th Century Irish History translated from original Celtic which takes up the line of Noah and carries it through to the first Scottish King. At this point the line is taken up in an early 19th Century Scotch History from which it is easily traced through the Plantagenet family to King Edward III.

THE LEONARD (LENNARD) FAMILY ENGLISH LINEAGE

"Leonard" is of Saxon origin - derived from words "Leo-ard" signifying "Lion-heart" and was found more than twelve hundred years ago in England - at the time the Saxons came over into Kent and established their King in Essex, the name is found among the leading families - after the Saxon invasion many "Leonards" settled in Kent, Sussex, England. The Leonards trace their pedigree back to landed property holders and titled nobility, where the family is shown to have descended in two lines from Edward III, through his sons "John of Gaunt, Duke of Norfolk," and his younger brother "Thomas Plantagenet, Duke of Gloucester". The title of rank was brought into the family when Lady Margaret Fiennes, sister and heir to Sir Gregory Fiennes (Fynes) Baron Dacre, became the wife of Sir Samson Leonard, the Barony of Dacre having been secured to her by direction of King James I upon the death of her brother. Dacre Castle was occupied by the Leonards (name derived from exploits of one of their ancestors at the Siege of Acre "the St. Jean d'Acre of modern times" in the Holy Land under Richard Coeur de Lion.)

THE WELLES FAMILY LINEAGE

The Welles family has been traced back to the Vaux family, which derived its name from a district in Normandy. The Vaux family is on record in Provence as early as 794, and is recognised as one of the most illustrious in history, having from that period held the highest rank in its own right and by royal intermarriages.
Harold de Vaux a near connection of William the Conqueror, founded the family in England, about 1120, and was accompanied by his three sons, Barons Hubert, Ranulph, and Robert, all surnamed de Val-libus -

Robert de Welles born about 1145 was the greatgrandson of Robert de Vallibus, and held manor of Little Rayne in Essex, England. There were numerous branches of the family founded in England, all wealthy and powerful, and in their own right. Their marriages were with the leading families of the realm, among these that of "Dynoke", in which is held the title of Hereditary Champion of the Kings of England. Sir Hugh de Welles, (son Sir Joscelyn) became one of the most important men in England - advancing to the See of Lincoln as Archdeacon and Lord Chancellor of England, his power became very great. He was chief of the Barons and was instrumental in obtaining from King John in 1215 the great Magna Charta, prepared by his own hand in 1207. He appears to have been in very close alliance with, and in the confidence of King John. Wells Cathedral in Somersetshire in its present form was begun by Bishop Joscylin de Welles, brother of the Bishop Hugh de Welles, before the middle of the thirteenth century. The Bishopric seals of both are attached to the Magna Charta.

Bertrand de Vaux, b 929, Normandy, favored Robert, Duke of Normandy, grandfather of William the Conqueror, who was a kinsman of his.

Sir Harold de Vaux, (2) Lord of Vaux, Caen, Normandy, having for religious purposes, conferred his Seigniority upon the Abbey of the Holy Trinity at Caen, founded by the Duchess Matilda, wife William the Conqueror, came into England with his three sons, Hubert, Ranulph and Robert (the latter returned to Normandy.)
